Butler Girl Teaching in Arkansas University.

Fayetteville, Ark., November 27.—With houses and apartments, and even rooms, at a premium in Fayetteville, home seekers were startled today by the announcement that one of the finest residences in the city, ten rooms, completely furnished, was to be vacated next month. They were equally depressed when they learned that they had no chance to rent it, for the house referred to is the practice college of the Home Economics Department of the University of Arkansas, and its present occupants as they leave the residence for the last time, probably will meet the new occupants who will take their places.

The house is occupied at all times by six young women members of the junior and senior home economics classes, in order that they may learn practical housekeeping. Each set of students resides in the house for three months, and under the supervision of Miss Rowena Schmidt and Miss Anna Belle Thompson, instructors, they learn the ins and outs of cooking, sweeping, marketing and being hostesses.

The training at the practice cottage is not allowed to interfere with the regular class work, but must be taken outside of the regular lecture and class hours.

Miss Anna Belle Thompson, referred to in the above clipping is the daughter of Capt. and Mrs. J. E. Thompson, of north of town. She is a graduate of the Butler High School and of the University of Missouri.
